COURIER AN AID IN SUCCESSFUL QUEST OF CLERIC FOR NEPHEW

Roy Brown, Orphaned and Penniless, Finds Home
With Kins at Pillow.

BENEFATOR IS A MINISTER

Rev. S. P. Brown, Helped by Exclusive Story and by the Rev. C. E. Wagner and Wife, Finds Little Boy at Home of Aaron Ulster.

Roy Brown, 13 years old, left parents in Connellsville by the death of his father, Frank Brown, in Fairmont, W. Va., October 28, has found relatives and home through the Courier. This afternoon, Roy, accompanied by his uncle, the Rev. S. P. Brown, pastor of the Reformed church at Pillow, Dauphin county, departed for the latter's home. His face beams with a light happier than that which was found by a Courier reporter on Pittsburgh street, almost two weeks ago.

The Courier's story of the boy's life and misfortune led to his discovery by his uncle. Fourt of the future, Roy followed a suggestion to write to a relative in the eastern part of the State. Last week, he sent a letter to the Rev. S. P. Brown, Uniontown, Dauphin county. The postal authorities there lent their aid. They struck out the address and substituted that of Pillow. The Rev. Mr. Brown received the letter Saturday evening.

On Monday morning at 7 o'clock, he left his home in Pillow. He arrived here at 10 o'clock last night. Coming to Connellsville, the Rev. Mr. Brown went to the parsonage of the Rev. C. E. Wagner of the local Reformed church, on East Green street. Telling of his search for his nephew, the Rev. Mr. Brown was informed by Mr. and Mrs. Wagner of the Courier's story.

A call at The Courier office was made; then they were directed to the home of Miss Jessie Shorb, on East Peach street, and from there to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Ulster, near Shadyside. Roy was at the latter place.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, this morning, stated over his address to The Courier, he said, "I was disengaged at first on coming here. I feared I could not find a 13-year-old child among so many people. I don't know what I would have done without The Courier's story. I give The Courier my hearty thanks for its assistance."

Roy Brown was born in Armstrong county. His mother died 10 years ago. His father a traveling sales man, went to Bradford and then home. The two boarded with Miss Shorb. Late in the summer, Roy went to the Aaron Ulster home, near Shadyside. His father left on a business trip through West Virginia.

On October 28, Frank Brown, the father, was taken ill in Fairmont, W. Va., and went to the hospital there. His last letter to Roy is that he hoped to be out in a few days, but a message from the hospital to Roy, his father, was delayed. Roy was sent to Fairmont to be with his father, but was unable to find his father's body. A second trip was made and from an undertaker Roy learned his father had been buried in Fairmont.

Disheartened, Roy went back to Miss Shorb's home. Then passed left to Frank Brown were examined. The father had left prior to the nothing for his son. The Ulster family offered to buy a home and he accepted it.

The Rev. Mr. Brown has been the pastor of the Pillow Reformed Church almost 21 years.

BOYTS-REID CASE AGAIN IN COURT ON SUIT IN EQUITY

Action Remanded by State Supreme Tribunal Heard by Judge
Robert Umber.

The Boyts-Reid equity case, involving the estate of the late B. F. Boyts and Colonel James M. Reid, of Connellsville, E. H. Reid of Scottsdale, the Scull estate of Somerset, and $160,000, was before Judge Robert E. Umber, in the Fayette county courts, at Uniontown, today.

The case had been referred back to the Fayette courts following an appeal to the State Supreme Court. Judge Umber had decided that the fund held no interest in the fund of $160,000 in question, but the Supreme Court held that the trust compacts, with which the fund had been placed, should have been thumbed.

The late B. F. Boyts and Colonial Reid, E. H. Reid of Scottsdale, and the heirs of the Scull estate sold coal land in Somerset county and the franchises of the Ursula & Norfolk Railroad Company for $160,000. The Somerset Trust Company was elected trustee, and notices of distribution were sent out.

Judge Umber filed exceptions to the trust company, it was claimed, had not considered him a party to the fund, because he had sold his interest to B. F. Reid before the declaration of the trust. The matter appeared to hinge upon the legal relations of James M. Reid with E. H. Reid. Reid filed a bill in equity against D. H. Reid, the Somerset Trust Company and the Scull estate. It was then that Judge Umber ordered the trust company to distribute the funds among the others without considering James M. Reid.

The hearing, begun this morning, was on the matter of interest on the fund. Counsel for four Somerset banks sat in the court room. They were Henry S. Barron, Farmers' National Bank, Milton Pitts, County Trust Company, Edward K. Gallagher First National, and John Joseph Swenk, of the Somerset Trust Company.

Attorneys J. S. Moorehead, of Greensburg, and John Duggan, Jr., of Connellsville, appeared for E. H. Reid, D. W. McDonald and E. H. Reid, of Uniontown, for the Boyts estate, E. C. Higbee, of Connellsville, for J. M. Reid, and George R. Scull of Somerset, for the Scull heirs.

GIVE PROPER CARE TO THE HAIR

AND YOU WILL NEVER NEED A WIG

The man who wears a toupee does not like it, but had the courage of his convictions.

Nature never intended that the top of the head should be left without protection. A bald head is very susceptible to contraction of colds and rheumatism. Wearing an artificial top piece counteracts this tendency, and aside from the improvement in the personal appearance, is amply justified.

How much better it would have been had the man now chronically bald and wearing a toupee, but realized earlier in life the approaching danger and devoted a little regular attention to his hair, which would have saved it.

There is a rapidly which will affect the entire body. Loss of hair in this case out of ten is unnecessary, being due to dandruff and the germs that cause it. This germ must be destroyed and the accumulation of

CORPORATE PATERNALISM.

The announcement that the Bell telephone interests had set apart a fund of $10,000,000, for the purpose of providing pensions, benefits and life insurance for its employees, is only another instance of the fact that the relations between employer and employee, especially between large corporations and their workmen, have undergone radical changes in the past quarter of a century.

The bare treatment of labor, and their utter indifference to the safety or comfort of their employees, may also be the popular judgment of the time, that "Corporations have no souls."

The present attitude of employers, especially large corporations, is little more than paternal benevolence, and is in such a contrast with that of former times that there is natural speculation concerning its significance. There is but one reasonable interpretation of it. It simply means that large employers of labor recognize the changing conditions, and, instead of warring against them profitably as in times past, they are preparing to meet them in a spirit of amity more than hostility.

The Bell preparation is not new. The telephone people are not inventors in this line. The way has long been blazed, but the pioneers sought a different destination. Rail-road relief associations have been in operation for many years. They were not inaugurated solely by desire to benefit the workmen, on the contrary, their primary purpose was to protect the railroads against damage suits for injuries and death to employees in the line of duty.

The present purpose of corporate relief funds is also worthy yet not wholly removed from selfish considerations. Corporate management, like corporate employment, has not become sanctified. We are all of the earth and earthy. The primary purpose of the Bell relief fund is probably to anticipate the impending Workmen's Compensation law. It is proposed to see the State first. Corporations have become more law-abiding than some citizens, and their views of things have broadened.

The success of any business depends upon its ability to run smoothly and continuously, and to sell all its products at profitable prices. Safety and lockouts are ruinous to both capital and labor. They should be abandoned as foolishness. It has therefore become the modern practice of industrial corporations to treat their employees not only fairly, but to make their wages, conditions attractive, to provide, not only for their present, but also for their future, so that the faithful employee will remain faithful to the end of his period of usefulness, content in the knowledge that in his old age and helplessness he will not be thrown upon the cold charity of the world, but will be provided for out of the pension fund of his company.

While the acts of these large corporations are commendable, it cannot be assumed that every employee of a corporation is to blame because he does not follow their example. Big business makes big money and the establishment of funds like those described is a relatively small matter for them to finance. Moreover, the bill is footed by the consumer. Smaller manufacturers are not always in position to follow the example of the larger ones. Their profits are more limited or more uncertain or both.

The Workmen's Compensation law continues to be a good law in itself, and in age, and that the cost of doing so shall be considered a portion of the cost of making a tire and shall be added to the bill, but it is one thing to add to the cost of production, and another to me to add the addition to the price.

When Government by Regulation has power, it is a chance to prevent unfair competition, the establishment of the law on a principle of rules, from much doubt and embarrassment.

A GIANT FROM ARMAGEDDON. This is the Roosevelt formula of Armageddon for the rest of us. Roosevelt's own admission that the party he represents has come to stay and that the right has held boom.

After the blind campaign in which the mass cult followed the big Bill in the late timberland campaign, we have no people left to make comment on the future. We can only express the hope of every sincere Republican, who believes that the principles of the party are paramount to the personal ambitions of any man or set of men within it or without, that the party will not, above all, and again, be in sympathy with, what is to the end that all citizens shall be prosperous and happy.

The rank and file of the Progressives, a party of narrow interests who sought in the late election to abolish boasting within the Republican party, but then fenders zero for the most part worse than those they sought to denounce. We need go no further than Pennsylvania for an example. In this State it was fought between H. P. Snyder and William Penn for political supremacy, and Penn won. But this year, no means improved upon these conditions.

The latter is constantly giving us examples of the fact. In his proclamation above referred to he says the Progressives won their fight against the upholders of Special Privilege "without much money, without any organization, against the wealth of the country, against the entire organized ability of the country."

As a matter of fact, it is well known that the Progressive movement was ably organized; in some States, like Pennsylvania, better organized than the opposition; and the testimony before the Clapp investigating committee showed that it spent more money than the Republican party. As for Special Privilege, we should think in the light of some of Roosevelt's open support, financial and otherwise, that he would hesitate to try to deceive the people so grossly.

It is a little early yet to say who and what has "come to stay" in the politics of this country, and perhaps the people are not greatly interested in the matter at present.

The oldest Connellsville coke region misionary celebrated his golden anniversary as a minister a few days ago. The uplift movement in this mining district began many years ago. The first to enter the field, the most paratively, was the Methodists, followed by the Baptists. With its easily broadened territory and wonderfully increased population, the Connellsville region has furnished work enough for a number of other denominations all seeking to turn the light of truth upon the dark places.

The Balkan war still threatens the peace of Europe, and T. Roosevelt still insists that the Republican party shall remain annihilated.

The Connellsville Democrats believe in celebrating when they can.

The site of General Arthur Saint Clair's Westminister home has been prominently and handsomely marked by the visitors of the American Revolution, but the site of the home of Colonel William Crawford, on the banks of the Youghiogheny, where Washington was frequently entertained, is in danger of being lost to recollection.

Pennsylvania railroad management is cutting down the time of some of its crack passenger trains. The company's revised rule is, "Safety first, speed second."

Women burglars are suspected of operating in Connellsville. Suffering suffragettes! What is this Progressive movement leading the country to?

The hunters have struck the trail and the traps rates on rabbits and squirrels and other kinds of game has risen sharply in consequence.

Basketball is expected to take the place of the election excitement, but not until after the parade.

Boy Tramps have been classified with Undesirable Citizens by Burgesses Evans, and the classification will have hearty public approval.

Venus may be widowed and hard of hearing, but still fascinating enough to make men desperate for love of her.

The Union Supply Company Stores Handle Only Specials.

Take our shoe departments for instance. Every pair we handle is made especially for us, and orders are given the manufacturers months in advance. We have already placed our orders for our next spring business. Think of that! Six months in advance, the fall and winter when we are selling out, were contracted for almost a year ago; then we were bought when the market was low; an average of 15c per pair less than we can buy the same goods for today, and yet our customers are getting the benefit of it. In fact, ten years every pair of shoes we have for men, for women, for children, even down to the tiniest tad's shoes, are made especially for us according to our specifications. THAT IS WHY WE GUARANTEE THEM without any hesitation. That is one reason why we know that you are getting the best shoes that can be produced, that is why you can wear other dealer's out. We want to call special attention to the extraordinary good values in men's working shoes for engineers, plumbers, gardeners, roadmen in mines, haulers, pumpers, miners, etc. Everybody knows that mine work is hard on shoes; sulphur is particularly hard on them, yet we are selling a class of shoes that lasts six months, nine months and even a year, continuous wear, at this work. We want also to call your attention to our very excellent shoes for boys, rock-a-bouts, everyday play or work shoe; good fitting, good wearing; medium priced. We can say the same for the girls'. For the women, we also have very desirable, stylish, specially made for our trade, good fitting, good wearing shoes, and moderate in price. The very large quantity we sell is the best evidence in the world, that our goods are alright.

Union Supply Company Special Goods; Specially Made In the Furniture Departments.

When we sell on instalment, we do it as an accommodation; bear that in mind. Our furniture departments just now are overflowing with all sorts of staples and novelties; made especially for our trade. We can outfit your house completely from kitchen to attic, dining room, library, parlor, bedroom furniture; from the lowest grade to the most expensive. It doesn't cost a large amount of money to outfit a house comfortably; really it is surprising what a nice class of furniture and other household goods you can get from the Union Supply Company at moderate prices. Many people from the surrounding towns and farmers in the vicinity of our stores buy furniture from us; often we equip new houses complete, and every time our customers are quite sure they are saving money. Scottdale Citizens Regardless of Their Affiliations Lay Plans for It.

ANOTHER MEETING FOR TONIGHT

Officers are Elected and Committees Raffined; Bands, Red Fire and Enthusiasm Will Be Seen in Profusion; Guests to be Invited to be Present.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE, Nov. 12.—There will be a meeting this evening at 8 o'clock, of the members of the committees and all others interested in the political jubilee to be celebrated in Scottdale on Thursday evening. The gathering tonight will be at the Borough building where a brief meeting was held last evening.

E. Guy Wenzler called the crowd to order, saying that it had been talked of having a Democratic celebration, but it was suggested that everyone join in since the Democrats had got a president, the Progressives taken the State and Scottdale got a Congressman. Mr. Wenzler then said that the meeting was open for the election of a president and John S. Parker, the merchant, was elected president of the celebration. W. L. Kelly was elected secretary and he read from the Connellsville Courier the list of committees and their members, saying that when the propositions were in a meeting had been called for Friday night, but various groups came at different times and the meeting was not held so that one on Saturday evening, to make the start for the celebration, had named the committees, which took in members of thy different political faiths. The committees were ratified as read. J. P. Parsons was elected treasurer of the organization.

One of the things done last evening was to pass a motion that Chief Edward McFadden and all members of the Fire Department and members of the Fire Department and members of the Public Safety Committee. The former will decide tonight whether they will come out in uniform, which they probably will. Horse, boats and automobiles are to be in the parade but the meeting thought that no wagons, buggies, horses or autos should be allowed on the streets during the parade time, unless they were taking part in the parade. The manner in which those ran back and forward on the streets at the Hallowe'en celebration was the most objectionable feature of the celebration and it will be eliminated, if possible, during this one. The other rules of no bonfires, no sparklers, grease paint, talcum powder or explosives will also be adhered to as in former celebrations.

C. W. Cunningham of the music committee is to arrange with the Grand Army Band for their appearance in the parade and Harry White of the Freeman's Drum Corps is to be seen regarding the coming out of that organization.

It was decided to print four pieces of red flannel and will be distributed along the route to grown people, as it has been in former meetings of this kind, a method which thus far has worked with great success. Fifty dollars worth of the red stuff will be burned.

The electric arches are still up from Hallowe'en and it was stated the West Penn wanted $3 for turning on the current for the celebration, but J. S. Johnson, the superintendent, said he would take the matter up with the head of the lighting department and make the arrangements so that it may be furnished free that evening as for Hallowe'en. The members were averse to paying for the lights.

An automobile committee was appointed, consisting of Earl Riley, Frank Hill, F. A. Fields, Charles Carroll and Paul Garber. They will have the best of getting as many machines in line as possible.

A number of the political rights of all the parties in the county will be voted to be present at Scottdale's

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only cleans off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a flash and leaves your pots and pans as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work!"

CLEAN YOUR LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS WITH "SYRUP OF FIGS"

More Effective Than Calomel, Castor Oil or Salts; Gently Cleanses the Stomach, Liver and Bowels Without Nausea or Griping. Children Dearly Love It.

You know when your liver is bad, but your bowels are sluggish. You feel a certain dullness and depression, perhaps the approach of a headache; your stomach gets sour and full of gas, tongue coated, breath foul, or you have indigestion. You say, "I am ill, constipated or griping. I must take something to help."

If you child is cross, sick and fidgety, or the little stomach sour, tongue coated, give Syrup of Figs at once. It's really all that is needed to make children well and happy again. They dearly love its pleasant taste. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and look on the label for the name, "California Fig Syrup Company." That, and that only, is the genuine. Refuse any other fig syrup substitute with contempt.—Advertisement.

events that evening, and Burgess R. E. Ellis will endeavor to get in touch with all he can between now and the parade time.

Miss Griffith of the General Committee was commissioned to get the Borough officials clean the streets before Thursday evening, so that the line of march will be a pleasant one. All citizens are requested to decorate their houses or places of business for that evening.

The line of march was decided upon as follows: Form at Chestnut street at Loucks park, resting on Arthur; march up Loucks avenue to Grove street, Grove street to Pittsburg street, Pittsburg street to Broadway, Broadway to Spring street, Spring street to Spring street and diehard.

'CASCARETS' FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACHSluggish Bowels Cause Gas-es, Sourness and Food Fermentation.

That awful sourness, belching of ard and foul gases that pain the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you know the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets: they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the concreted waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a ten-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; even and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Meeting.

Hamlin's first impulse was to ignore the note, trusting his position in the ranks would be sufficient barrier to prevent any chance meeting, and leaving his stay at that garrison would be only a brief one. Sheridan was evidently preparing for an early offensive campaign, and it was rumored on all sides that the Seventh Cavalry had been selected for active field service. Indeed, the urgent orders for the consolidation of the regiment from scattered posts must mean this. Any day might bring orders, and he could easily avoid this Mrs. Dupont until then. Except for a faint curiosity, the Sergeant felt no inclination to meet the woman. Whatever influence she might have once exercised over him had been thoroughly overcome by distance and absence. Even the unexpected sight of her again—scarcely as she was—had failed to awaken the spell of the past. It was almost with a thrill of delight that Hamlin realized this—that he was in truth utterly free of her influence. There had been times when he had anticipated such a possible meeting with d—d, when he had doubted his own heart, the strength of his will to resist. But now he knew he stood absolutely independent and could laugh at her wills. She who had once been all—trusted, loved, worshipped with all the mad fervor of youth—had become only a dead memory. Between them stretched a chasm never to be bridged.

What could the woman possibly want of him? To explain the past? To justify herself? He knew enough already, and desired to know no more. Could she hope—natural coquetry that she was—to regain her hold upon him? The man smiled grimly, confident of his own strength. Yet why should she care for such a conquest, the winning of a common soldier? There must be some better reason, some more subtle purpose. Could it be that she feared him, that she was afraid that he might speak to her injury? This was by far the most likely supposition. Molly McDonald—the woman was aware of their acquaintance, and was already alarmed at its possible result.

Hamlin stood up resolved. He would meet the woman, not from any desire of his own, but to learn her purpose, and protect the girl. The meeting could not injure him, not even bring a swifter beating of the heart, but might give him opportunity to serve the other. And Le Fevre—surely she could tell him something of Le Fevre.

Le Fevre was easily obtained, and the Sergeant, reclining in a freshly issued uniform, dressed with all the care possible, his interest reviving at this new point of view. It was not far down the bluff road to the squat little village which had naturally developed in close proximity to the fort—near enough for protection, yet far enough removed to be lawless—a rough frontier outpost town, of shacks and tents, most of these dispensing vile liquors. Among these, more enterprising spirits—hopefuls of future development—had erected larger buildings, usually barn-like, with false fronts facing the single main street, filled with miscellaneous stocks of goods or used for purposes not so legitimate. One of these housed the "Poodle Dog" saloon, with gambling rooms above, while a few doors below was a grand dance hall, easily converted into a theater if occasion arose—a grotesque, one-storyed monstrosity. Below there was the stage office, built against the three-storyed wooden hotel, which boasted of a wide porch on two sides, and was a picture of ugliness.

By daylight all was squalor and dirt, dingy tents flapping in the ceaseless wind, unpainted shacks, wooden houses with boards warping under the hot sun, the single street deep in yellow dust, the surrounding prairie littered with tin cans, and all manner of debris. But with the coming of night much of this roughness departed. Holders from the garrison on pass, idle plainsmen, bull-wheelers, adventurers of all kinds stranded here because of Indian activity, stray cowboys from the nearby valleys, thronged the numerous dives, seeking excitement. Women, gaudy of dress, shrill of voice, flitted from door to door through the jostling crowds. Lamp-blazed over the motley assembly, loud-voiced barkers yelled, and a band added its discord to the din. The "Poodle Dog" glared in light, resounding with noise; lamps gleamed from the hotel windows, and the huge dance hall stood wide open. Out from the shacks and tents crept the day's sleepers for a night of revelry; along the trails rode others eager for excitement; it was the harlot-time of those birds of prey in saloon and gambling hell.

Hamlin saw all this, but gave the surroundings little thought. He was of the West, of the frontier, and beheld nothing unique in the scene. Moreover, the purpose for which he was there overshadowed all else, left him indifferent to the noise, the jostling, drunken crowd. Some he met who knew him and called him name,

"Won't you even shake hands with me?"
“Is it necessary?” he asked, almost wearily. “You have come to me for some purpose surely, but it can hardly be friendship.”

“Why should you say that?” reproachfully. “I have deserved a rather brilliant party to meet you here.”

“That, perhaps, is why I say it, Mrs. Dupont. If my memory serves, you would not be inclined to leave such friends as you have yonder to rendezvous with a common soldier, unless you had some special object in view. If you will inform me what it is, we can very quickly terminate the interview.”

She laughed, a little touch of nervousness in the voice, but drew her skirts aside, and sat down on the bench.

“Do you think you can deceive me by such play-acting?” she asked eagerly. “You are no man of wood. Tell me, is there nothing you care to ask me, after—all these years?”

Hamlin lifted his eyes and looked at her, stirred into sudden interest by the almost caressing sound of the soft voice.

“My name is Hamlin; I am here on the lady's invitation.”

“Sure; that's her name all right, ma' am. You go out on the east porch there, an' wait a bit while I mind her word yer here. Of'm imagin' she had sum' doubt about yer comin', the way she spoke.”

“How do I get there?”

“Through the window of the parlor over there—sure, it's a noise quiet spot for a tête-à-tête.” He got up, and peered through his glasses across the room. “Here, Mollie; damn that sleepy head. Will one o' yer gent's wake the lad—that's it. Now come here, Mollie. You run over to the Palace an' tell Mrs. Dupont the teller is here waitin'. Hold on now, not so fast; wait till Ol'm done tellin' yer. Say that to her alone—do you mind that, ye say-head; nobody else is to hear what yer say; stay there till yer sit a chance ter whisper it to her. Now skip.”

Hamlin hesitated, watching the boy disappear.

“At the Palace—the dance hall across the street?” he asked incredulously.

“Sure,” indifferently, relighting his pipe. “Officers' ball; couldn't break in with a can-opened unless you had a invite. Guards at both ends, sergeant taking tickets, an' Third Regiment Band makin' music. Hell o' swell affair; got guests from Leavenworth, Wallace, and all around. Every room got in full an' ruinin' over—say, there are fellers over there in them fool swaller-tall coats; damned if there ain't. If the boys ever git sight of 'em on the street there'll be a hot time. Say, ain't that the limit? Injuns out there thick as fleas on a dog, an' them swells dancin' here in swaller-tails like this year was Boston.”

He was still talking when Hamlin crossed the narrow hall and entered the dimly-lighted, uncoupled parlor. The side window was open, a slight breeze rustled the heavy curtain, and the Sergeant stopped outside on the dark porch. There was a bench close to the rail and he sat down to wait. A gleam of light from the Palace fell across the western end, but the remainder of the porch lay in shadow, although he could look up the street, and see the people jostling back and forth in front of the Poodle Dog. The sound of mingled voices was continuous, occasionally punctuated by laughter, or an unrestrained outburst of

PROVES SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Quickly Eases Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints and Muscles—Drives All Rheumatic Pains Away.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can be quickly and permanently cured.

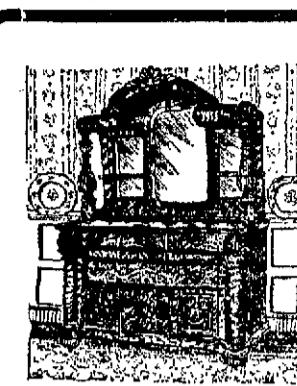

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, positively does this. It neutralizes and dissolves all the calcified substances and uric salt that lodges in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they filter all the poison from the blood, and drive it on and out of the system.

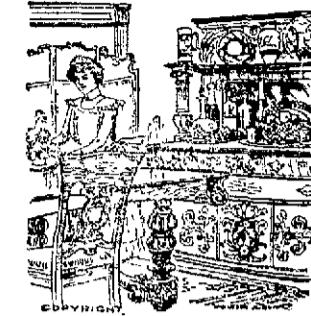

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It neutralizes all old salts and acids, or how long you have suffered. It is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

Croxone costs but a trifle at any drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is usually all that is needed to cure the worst buckache or overcome urinary disorders.
